

Fractional Laser Treatments with minimal down time

The latest advancement in the treatment of aging skin, Ultrapulse Encore Laser is a fractional laser procedure which is performed in a single treatment with minimal downtime.

Dr Alan Evans uses this new generation carbon dioxide laser to rejuvenate the facial skin. It works by removing the wrinkled and scarred outer layers of the skin, leaving behind a youthful, healthy and smoother appearance to the face.

The laser settings are tailored to the individual patients needs so that the desired depth of ablation can be accurately controlled. With the Ultra Pulse Co2 laser the skin resurfacing is so precise that treatment can be tailored according to the nature of sun damage, wrinkling, skin type and individual requirements for reduced recovery time.

Dr Evans attended Masters Symposium on Eye Surgery

This medical specialist symposium brought together world experts in Blepharoplasty and periorbital rejuvenation in April 2011 at Darling Harbour. These latest advances have been incorporated into our treatment protocols at Shire Cosmetic Medicine.

Autumn is the ideal time to start planning winter treatments for Leg Veins, IPL and Laser Treatments

IPL for uneven skin pigment and texture

Facial rejuvenation with IPL is best undertaken in the cooler months of the year. IPL is a non ablative treatment of the skin on the face, décolletage and hand to clear or improve unevenness of pigment and texture from years of environmental damage.

Dr Nair performs the IPL treatments and has a wealth of experience in IPL rejuvenation having treated patients with IPL for over 9 years.

IPL has very little down time post treatment, with a tolerable amount of pain or discomfort at the time of treatment. IPL treatments produce excellent results in clearing facial broken capillaries and improving general skin texture by stimulating collagen. Rosacea is another condition that can be managed with IPL. A typical treatment regime for IPL is 3 treatments spaced three weeks apart.

VARICOSE VEINS ARE NOT NECESSARILY A SURGICAL PROBLEM

Q. How do I arrange a leg vein treatment?

A. Firstly see your GP for a referral to see Dr Suri Nair. Dr Nair will then see you for an initial leg vein assessment where he will map out a treatment plan for you.

Sclerotherapy, the treatment of leg veins is a treatment Dr Suri Nair offers at Shire Cosmetic Medicine.

Ultrasound Guided Sclerotherapy is used to treat the appearance & discomfort of varicose veins. Superficial spider veins are treated with microsclerotherapy

All vascular assessments and microsclerotherapy treatments are performed at our Miranda Clinic whilst varicose veins are treated by Dr Nair at the Vascular Centre at Central Road Miranda.

No hospitalisation or anesthetic is required and the procedure is carried out with very little disruption to your work or daily schedules. To achieve a good cosmetic outcome by next summer commence your treatment NOW.
